Fay's Voice

"If anything, the last year of the still ongoing pandemic has taught us today's threats cannot wait until tomorrow for a comprehensive and integrated emergency management plan. In my thirty years of experience in emergency management and grant writing, I have built my work ethos around the motto "failure to plan is planning to fail", states Focus Point Emergency Management CEO, Fay Glass.

As CEO of Focus Point Emergency Management Consulting Services, Fay brings over thirty years of expertise in disaster preparedness and awareness. A proud minority female business owner, Fay dedicates herself to serving every person, every day. From small businesses to large corporations and with Fay at the helm, FP-EM's winning strategy blends exceptional management consulting skills with expertise producing innovative strategies and results for clients. Focus Point Emergency Management's (FPEM) lifeblood is to empower its growing list of diverse clients with a detailed plan for when the unfortunate prospect of disaster strikes. Be it a pandemic, earthquake, wildfire, hazardous material spill, or the all too increasingly common active shooter. FPEM develops strategies based on the specific needs of your non-profit, small business, or faith-based organization to protect lives, property, and the environment through effective mitigation, response, and recovery services providing peace of mind.

"When a man-made or a natural disaster does occur, your organization must be in a state of readiness", shared Fay Glass. "Let FPEM provide an assessment of your organization to determine whether an emergency plan already in place addresses both situational readiness and compliance with always changing federal, state, and local laws."

Our clients and their safety are top priority. FPEM strives for our clients to build a safe, secure, and, most importantly, resilient community through detailed plan writing and training. Both plan writing and training are key for your organization to survive before, during, or after a disaster. The FPEM staff's expertise to write and enact an emergency plan and training will provide your organization with a road map and clear roles and responsibilities for any calamity. At FPEM our motto is "Today's preparation, tomorrow's success!"

Emergency Manager Spotlight

Emergency Managers are professionals who are tasked with the responsibility of helping communities, anticipating hazards, recognizing vulnerabilities, and undertaking measures to deal with disasters more effectively by mitigating, preparing for, responding to, and recovering from them. FPEM is committed to lifting up and commending those Emergency Managers who truly make a difference in their communities.

Meet Emergency Manager Robin Bishop. Robin steadfastly protects public safety in the US Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Office of the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response (ASPR) in her duty as the Planning Section Chief Incident

Management Team. In addition to her role as the Public Health Program Director of Riverside

County, her work as a first responder to the pandemic has been timely and vital.

Robin has been on the frontline to contain COVID-19 from March Air Reserve Base's tarmac to the Navajo Nation's backroads. Her boots on the ground experience in emergency management during Hurricane Katrina combined with natural disasters in Haiti and national security events such as the Presidential Inauguration has prepared her for the response to COVID.

To be successful, strong emergency managers follow systematic processes and excel at coordinating multiple agencies and information sources while interacting well with partner organizations and the public. Robin exemplifies these important characteristics and more.

The entire FPEM team applauds Robin for her unwavering commitment to the safety and welfare of our community.

Our Four-Step Process for Emergency Preparedness Assessment, Emergency Planning, Training and Grant Writing

An essential component to any emergency preparedness plan is providing comprehensive training and relevant exercise to staff on the various scenario-based disasters that could affect your organization or business. The importance of training cannot be overemphasized. FPEM is here to help!

Interested in Training? Let FPEM customize a training for your business or organization. No two organizations are alike, FPEM customizes scenarios that best suit your emergency management needs. When it comes to safety, we are specialists in performing upfront analysis and design to match your needs and keep you compliant with Federal, State and local laws.

The Opportunity to Serve the Community

FPEM Consulting Services understands that true community impact is the result of deep collaboration, open communication, and dedicated volunteerism. FPEM is proud to share the appointment of CEO Fay Glass by the city of Fontana as one of five commissioners of its Parks, Community and Human Services Commission.

The beautiful city of Fontana

"I am humbled and honored to announce I have recently been confirmed by the Fontana City Council to serve as Parks, Community, and Human Services Commissioner.

As a long-term resident of thirty years, my goal is to diligently serve this still-growing city poised to surpass San Bernardino for the largest population in the county. I understand and appreciate the opportunity in this role. I will do my best to serve all the communities, from Martin Tudor Jurupa Hills Park in the south to the Jessie Turner Center in the north. As well as all the parks and communities in between.

Fontana is a dynamic, robust, and expanding city full of diversity and opportunity from Southridge to Hunter's Ridge. As a member of this advisory Commission to the City Council, it is my role to hear all these voices to enhance our citizens' quality of life. I look forward to working with the community for this goal."

FPEM - Bridge Builder of Success

Funding is the fuel for organizations to meet their missions. Without appropriate funding even the most essential organizations and businesses may not be able to meet their highest level of service or be able to sustain themselves.

FPEM is the architect in building and securing funding relationships between viable foundations and funding partners and those organizations and businesses in need. Many organizations do not have the staff, time nor expertise to pursue viable funding opportunities - many of which may be just beyond their awareness.

Grant Writing is one of FPEM's four pillars of foundational services. This service includes grant research, writing, grant management and customization to the selected foundations, along with grant submission. Our job is to champion for your success through solidifying viable funding and creating lasting relationships for sustainability. To learn more about our granting services visit our website at www.fpemconsultingservices.org.

Funder Profile - Inland Empire Community Foundation

Founded in 1941, the Inland Empire Community Foundation (IECF) is the oldest and largest community foundation in Inland Southern California. IECF partners with individuals, families, and corporations to help them achieve their charitable goals. Since inception, IECF has given out over $100 million in grants and scholarships.

FPEM applauds the outstanding impact that IECF has had on San Bernardino and Riverside Counties and expresses its deepest gratitude for IECF's exceptional response to the pandemic with the COVID-19 Resilience Fund. The pandemic fund included food security, childcare, the homeless population, and independent workers without a safety net. FPEM is proud to have successfully partnered with the Inland Empire Community Foundation (IECF) obtaining critical funds for clients such as Building Resilient Communities. To find our more information on the IECF, visit www.iegives.org.
